REAPPORTIONMENT

Of the Legislature-Former Action o Committee Reseinded.

Some days ago we published the proseedings of the joint committee on the reapportionment of the Legislature. At that meeting the committee had three propositions before it, namely: to increase the Senatorial Districts to thirteen, fourteen or filteen, increasing the number of Senators to twenty-six, twenty-eight and thirty, respectively. The committee at first decided to adopt the last named proposition, which increases the number of Senators to thirty. At a recent meeting, however, the committee reconsidered its action, and is now engaged in figuring on the practicability of such increase of Senatorial Districts. Some assert that the proposed increase is unconstitutional;
that the framers of the Constitution never contemplated any change in the Senato.
Others who do not hold this position think that the only practicable method is to leave the Senate as it is at present composed; or, if an increase be made, the last

The action of the committee at its last meeting was to increase the members of the House to seventy-seven. This action also may be subject to some modification here-after, but it will not be very material.

The Work of the Senate Committee &

A reporter of the Intelligences met Senator Fontaine Smith, Chairman of the Senate Special Committee on Immigration; in the McLure House lobby last night, and in the course of a desultory conversa tion with him on the progress his commit tee was making extracted much interest ing matter from him. Mr. Smith is deeply in earnest in this matter and desires to se some sort of system adopted in regard to some sort of system adopted in regard to immigration into this State. Mr. Smith and his committee have been working faithfully all week taking testimony for the purpose of ascertaining the condition of the immigrants in this State, and for the purpose of devising a system of immi gration.

"What agencies have you discovered to be working against immigration, Mr. Smith?" asked the reporter as he seated himself in a comfortable chair in Mr. Smith's room.

"Well," said our affable responden "you know the prime cause operating against the State is the defective land titles. Railroad companies are the greatest itiles. Railroad companies are the greatest enemies to immigration within this State. The agents of Western roads meet the immigrants when they come over and divert them to lands in the west by warning them none can get a clear title to land."

"Now for the remedy, Mr. Smith?"

"Yes sir, I will give you a rough outline of the plan the committee will propose. It is the intention to establish a Bureau of Immigration and Agriculture, make it a State Department. For this office we want a West Virginian—to be appointed by the Governor with the consent of the Board of Public Works. At the next general election, however, he is to be elected by the people. Our plan then contemplates the appointment of an agent of immigration, who is conversant with the European languages—one who can explain the general features of the State, its climate, &c., to the immigrants, and act as interpreter. We will also provide for a thorough organization in each county so as to obtain information of the amount of land for sale, its character and a general description of it. These facts will be recorded in the office of the Bureau of Immigration, and when sold the State will be entitled to a small percentage. The plan further provides to make the Attorney General the Judge and Certifier of land titles. When a land owner wants to sell his land he must have it surveyed and described. He then must submit his titles to the Attorney General, who will examine them, and if found perfect a record of the same will be made. who will examine them, and if found per

Of course this is but a rough sketch of

of the English Evangelical Lutheran

We have before us a neatly printed pamphlet of thirteen pages, the same being the Eighteenth Annual Report of the nglish Evangelical Lutheran Mission of this city, as made to the Pittsburgh Synod, October 14, 1880. The report was compiled by Rev. S. B. Barnitz, the pastor, who certainly has reason to take a pardonable pride in the good showing he makes of the interests of the church in his charge.

From the report we learn that the addi-tions to the church during the last year have been twenty-two, "of which twenty were from the world and two from other thurches."

The losses by removal and death have een eighteen, "showing," says the report, 'a net gain in numbers of only four, but a ar greater gain in influence and strength." The liberality of the Mission in contrib-

M. L. Smith, of Durbin's Corner's, Ohio, and a few volunteer gifts in small sums from friends outside, or $1,832 14 by the Mission alone, being an average of over $10 for every member of the Mission Church, or nearly $10 for every family of the one hundred in connection with the congregation. "When it is remembered," says Rev. Barnitz, "that the congregation has in it no wealth whatever, but that nearly every member, male and female, nas in it no weath whatever, but that nearly every member, male and female, earns their daily bread by daily work, we have reason to be glad at their record of giving."

Under the head devoted to the Sabbath

Under the head devoted to the Sabbath School, the report says: "Another young man of the promise—being the fourth from the mission—is now pursuing his studies in the Freshman Class, Pennsylvania College, Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, preparatory to entering the ministry. This young man, Charles A. Britt, is a child of the church, having been given to the church by his mother on her death-bed, and educated and cared for by her direction at the "Tressler Orphans' Home." The first of the mission's students was called to his reward just as he entered the work. Commenting on the future Rev. Ba Commenting on the luture Kev. Barnitz takes occasion to say: "Prospects for the coming year are very cheering. With our people all at work, with no disturbance of the finances and no reduction of the tariff on iron and glass, with a growing interest in our church on the part of many noble Germans who are in regular attendance at our services, and with harmony and united action, we have reason to look for a year of blessing. The chapel is filled at nearly every service, and many to look for a year of blessing. The chapel is filled at nearly every service, and many times is too small for the audiences. The population of Wheeling, by the census of 1880, is 31,186, and that of the towns connected with it by bridge, ferry and horse-cars, 15,514, or a total of 40,760."

The report contains a tabulated statement of the contributions made by the mission for different objects since 1863. The grand total for the seventeen years for

Two Organs.

Regulate first the atomach, second the liver; especially the first, so as to perform their functions perfectly and you will remove at least nineteen twentieths of all the illa that mankind is heir to, in this or any other climate.
